Meredith Granberry represents clients in complex civil and commercial litigation and business disputes. She strives to work closely with her clients to understand their needs and goals, and to support them throughout the litigation process.

A commitment to detail and passion for advocacy

While in law school, Meredith worked at the Harris County District Attorney's Office, the Travis County District Attorney's Office, the Texas Law Children's Rights Clinic and volunteered through the Mithoff Pro Bono Program. Through these experiences, she has had the opportunity to handle cases at many different stages of the litigation process, including reviewing evidence in preparation for hearings and trials, drafting documents to be submitted to the court, and advocating for clients at hearings. Meredith also served as an editorial member of the Texas Environmental Law Journal and a board member for Texas Law Fellowships.
